Practicing skills and testing procedures are essential strategies for organisations to ensure personnel are prepared and poised to take appropriate and safe action during an emergency or crisis situation.

This short course steps participants through the process from the creation of realistic simulated exercise environments, to highlighting the essential follow-up steps for making formal recommendations to key stakeholders. Learners will have opportunities to engage in a variety of exercises during the program as well as building a portfolio of documentation to support further accredited learning in ‘Exercise Management’ related units of competency.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
Following completion of this program, participants will be able to:
1. Determine the need for the exercise
2. Develop an exercise activity
3. Identify exercise components and documentation
4. Deliver and execute the exercise plan

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?
Any interested persons working in organisations involved in emergency management, local government, community development, relief and/or recovery, and not-for-profit organisations with a community focus.

COURSE ASSESSMENT:
This course is a professional development program and does not include a formal assessment task. Participants will take part in developing and delivering practical scenario exercises. Activities undertaken will contribute material for assessment activities in complementary accredited training and may support learnings in applying for Recognition of Prior Learning for other qualifications in exercise management. Participants will receive a TAFE Statement in Delivering multi-agency exercises
