

Subject/Module Name : Develop and implement community programs

Subject/Module Number : 4473C

Subject/Module Purpose:

This module leads to:

CHCCD4B and C Develop and implement community programs

Unit Descriptor:

Developing community programs to ensure maximum participation.

Learners will:

1. Develop program parameters
2. Design programs with the community
3. Implement programs
4. Evaluate programs

Learners need to be aware that if they have a criminal record involving violence or abuse there may be limitations to their practical and workplace activities and opportunities, and to their career options, in areas involving contact with vulnerable persons.

They also need to be aware that there are legislative requirements when working with children, vulnerable people and also the environment, which are supported by OHS policy guidelines.

Previous TAFE NSW Studies

The tables below show the TAFE NSW Advanced Standing Arrangements which have been approved for the above unit/module (target unit/module). Each arrangement has a unique reference number which links this target unit/module in your present course of study with the source units/modules (i.e. those which you need to have successfully completed to gain an exemption). The dates of the arrangement indicate the period in which it is valid. You are entitled to claim the recognition described in the arrangement if you have been enrolled in your current course at any time during that period.

Results transferred

If you have a successful result in the source unit/module shown in the following arrangement(s), you may have the result transferred to the target unit/module in the course you are currently enrolled in. This applies only if the assessment in the previous unit/module compares with the assessment of the unit/module in your current enrolment. Your TAFE NSW Transcript of Academic Record will report the unit/module result and indicate that it has been achieved BY RESULT TRANSFER.

However, if the source unit/module was assessed and/or reported differently to the assessment required for the target unit/module, you will obtain an exemption in the target unit/module but your result will not be transferred. In this case, your TAFE NSW Transcript of Academic Record will indicate that the unit/module has been achieved BY ADVANCED STANDING.
